

Scott Cornwall Hair Analysis Classes

A Scott Cornwall Hair Analysis Class gives you the chance to not only discover your own hair, but understand how to deal with it both now and in the future.

During the class, Scott will colour analysis you and explain your specific hair colour season. Outlining the colourant shades, methods and techniques that will work 100% for you. In addition, Scott will reveal your hair image category based on both internal and external factors, educating you on how this unique category can be worked with and referred to in the future - so you always sport cuts and style effects that suit both your external appearance and internal personality.

A Hair Analysis class is approximately 3 to 4 hours in length and is designed for 6 delegates. Within a class environment, you get to hear and understand other peoples hair issues. In addition, (and as an objective bystander) you will watch as Scott both colour and hair image analysis your fellow delegates, enabling you to recognise why his recommended colours, styles and methods would work for varying types of individuals. Whilst the group of 6 learn extensively together - each delegate ultimately receives their own prescriptive hair advice, instruction and profile.

The Hair Management section of the class truly enables Scott to begin explaining technical ways you can work with your own hair to obtain the results that are right (just) for you. Within this section, Scott is able to recommend the types of hairdresser you should be visiting (and) or how to simply manage aspects of colour and styling at home – giving step by step instruction tailored to your specific requirements. Home management also includes recommendations for products (that suit your hair and style requirements) and how to upkeep looks and effects (suited to you) easily.

All Scott Cornwall Hair Analysis Classes are conducted in a private environment, where open discussion is readily encouraged. The purpose of the half day experience is to teach you 100% about your own hair, what suits, works and harmonises with you both inside and out. Remember, everyone's hair issues are different. Some people attend one of Scott's classes to learn how to successfully achieve great home hair and ultimately save money (or time) in the long run. For others, their motivation to come to a class may be born of sheer frustration at never seeming to find a hair look that works for them. A Scott Cornwall Hair Analysis Class is designed to be a one off experience that has a lifetime effect.

In addition, Scott's work does not stop once you have left the class. All delegates who attend Scott Cornwall classes and clinics have access to him via e-mail, by which they can seek Scott's advice or guidance in the months and (even) years to come. Remember, hair change and transition can be a long term undertaking and many people are on a journey to slowly evolve and replenish their existing styles and looks.

Class delegates receive:-

- Seasonal specific shade chart and advised methods/description
- Specific Hair Personality & Image Guide
- Prescriptive guidelines from Scott Cornwall for Hair Management

Scott offers several Hair Analysis classes throughout the year, in varying locations around the UK. Cost is £125 per delegate. Classes are very popular and places often limited. To see if there is availability for a class near you, please visit:-

www.scottcornwallhair.com